Global Mobilization: 18 November 2022
2nd Annual World Day for Prevention, Healing, and Justice to End Childhood Sexual Violence

Won't you join us? Help us spread the word!

This 18 November, let's join forces around the 2nd Annual World Day for Prevention, Healing and Justice to End Childhood Sexual Violence. Help us make some noise and demand action as we build on the groundbreaking work of the Global Collaborative to establish a World Day and the Council of Europe's European Day on the Protection of Children Against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse endorsed by 46 member countries.

The Brave Movement's survivors and allies are joining forces to demand bold action by G7 leaders and governments around the world to invest in solutions to end childhood sexual violence in every nation.

More information for 18 November will be coming in October.

Social Media Toolkit: The Brave Movement will be producing and sharing a 2nd Annual World Day toolkit next month to help support local and national mobilization on 18 November that will include social media badges and draft posts, media alerts and press releases and advocacy resources.

Briefings: The Brave Movement will host briefings in English, French and Spanish in October to walk you through the toolkit, share ideas and activities happening worldwide and meet other members of the Brave Movement global community.

We have the evidence to know what works and what action is needed. The Brave Movement wants leaders to act now to implement proactive solutions for prevention, healing and justice and to make real investments, both domestically and globally.

Stay tuned...and let's make some noise!
