Champagne Style

Méthode Traditionelle sparkling wines are made in the same style as Champagne under different names. Crémant is always from other regions in France, Cava is always from Spain, and there are several in the United States without any specific name to designate them.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

Sauvignon Blanc is wildly popular all over the world thanks to its fresh acidity and chameleon like nature. It can range in styles from lean, mineral-driven, tart to tropical, rich and creamy.

France

6530	Château Villa Bel-Air, Graves, Bordeaux 2018	50
9641	Domaine Ines Lauverjat, Sancerre, Loire Valley 2020	60
9618	Thierry Merlin-Cherrier, Sancerre, Loire Valley 2020	65
7810	Sebastien Riffault 'Akmenine', Sancerre, Loire Valley 2018	70

This is no ordinary Sauvignon Blanc! This spends a lengthy time in the cellar, spending three years in used oak barrels and bottled with no filtering. Notes of orange marmalade, apricot, chamomile, and almonds.

Discovery Grape: SAUVIGNONASSE or FRIULANO

Officially called Sauvignonasse, this lean, dry, herbal white is often mistaken for its relative, Sauvignon Blanc. You'll find it in abundance in Northeastern Italy in Friuli-Venezia Giulia, called simply 'Friulano'.

9626	I Clivi 'San Pietro' Friulano, Collio, Friuli 2020	52

CHENIN BLANC

Chenin Blanc is the darling of the Loire Valley of France, but it also has a long history in South Africa. The benchmark notes of this grape are flavors of baked yellow apple, honey, lanolin and beeswax.

France

7808	Domaine Huët 'Clos du Bourg' Demi-Sec, Vouvray 2014	85

MUSCADET

The third most important grape of the Loire Valley, Muscadet is fresh and clean and very racy. It is the premier go-to wine for oysters.

France, Loire Valley

7531	Domaine du Fief aux Dames, Muscadet Sèvre-et-Maine 2020	26

SEMILLON

Dry Semillon can be an intriguing, full-bodied wine with a satisfying combination of citrus, honey and grassiness. In its home region of Bordeaux, where it is the most widely planted white grape, it is usually blended with Sauvignon Blanc.

France

Hunter Valley Semillon is unique in style. Picked at an early stage of ripeness, it is super fresh, with zingy acidity and low-ish alcohol. It ages remarkably well.

PINOT GRIS + PINOT BLANC

Pinot Gris is a mutation of the Pinot Noir grape. It means "grey pinot" because it is neither red, like Pinot Noir, nor green like Pinot Blanc. These grapes are pink! On occasion, the result is a slight copper cast to the juice, but the wine tastes like neither of its cousins.

France

CHARDONNAY

France

Burgundy is one of the crown jewels of French wine, and White Burgundy can be stunning. From the north, in Chablis, you find higher acidity and fresh minerality. As you go south the climate warms, but the chalky minerality continues.

Chardonnay is a chameleon that adapts well to different wine making styles and climates. Because it can be relatively neutral, it shows well when aged in oak, where it takes on a creamy, buttery flavor that is either loved or hated.

VIOGNIER

Viognier is one of the flashiest white grapes out there. It grows well in warm places, so it becomes very ripe and full-bodied. It famously smells like peaches and lilies and can stand up to oak barrel aging.

MARSANNE + ROUSSANNE

This duet of grapes is often blended. They are both at home in the south of France and are fundamental white grapes in any Rhone white blend. While they can be somewhat neutral, their love for hot places makes for a rich wine that can stand up to oak aging.

RIESLING

Riesling is so often thought of as a sweet wine that many people miss the magic of what this grape can do. Every region produces a different style and flavor profile, but ultimately the greatest Rieslings are haunting and memorable, with razor-like acidity and lush fruit.

Old World Riesling: Germany, Austria, France

Drier styles of Riesling are preferred in Germany, but there is a range of styles to be found that start at extremely dry, like fresh lime, to very sweet, like honey. Most vines are grown on steep hillsides where they can soak up every last ray of sunlight.

GRÜNER VELTLINER + SYLVANER

Grüner Veltliner translates as Green Veltliner, and it indeed has very green flavors. This Austrian varietal is recognizable for flavors of green apple, lime, arugula, peppercorn, lentil, and herbs. It is quite unique but ultimately delicious!

GEWÜRZTRAMINER

Gewurztraminer translates as "spicy grape from Tramin", a town in Northern Italy. While many people associate this grape with Germany, only its name is German. The grape is famous for its aromatic nature that is reminiscent of roses and lychee.

France

The Alsace region of France is most famous for Gewurztraminer. You will notice that the "u" in Gewurztraminer has no umlaut over it; this is the proper spelling in France; only Germanic regions will spell it with a ü.

MUSCAT

Muscat, called Moscato in Italy and Moscatel in Spain and Portugal, is one of the oldest and most widespread grape families in the world. There is no one "true" Muscat, but rather many incarnations and sub varietals. The success of this grape is due to its seductive aroma and flavor.

Grape Origin: France

CINSAULT

Cinsault, or Cinsaut, is a red grape variety with high heat tolerance and potentially high yields. It is widely grown in the south of France, commonly used in blends and to make rosé. In Chile and South Africa, old vines of this workhorse grape have been repurposed to make light wines with floral, spicy red berry flavors and low tannins.

2510	Pedro Parra 'Imaginador', Itata, Chile 2019	50
	International vineyard consultant and soil specialist Pedro Parra was born in Itata, and returns from his travels to make expressive wines grown on some of the oldest soils in the world.
6545	Craven, Stellenbosch, South Africa 2020	60

Grape Origin: South Africa

PINOTAGE

Pinotage was developed in South Africa in 1925. It is a cross of Pinot Noir and Cinsaut, which was known as Hermitage at the time. This modern version is from Abrie Beeslar, whose Kanonkop Pinotage is the benchmark for the variety. He now also has his own label, for which this is the entry level wine.

2023	Beeslar 'Taj', Swartland, South Africa 2020	36

—Jack Dawson in Titanic (1997)

GAMAY

Long dismissed as simple, Gamay is fast becoming the darling of the wine world. Bright fruit with a firm structure and tangy acidity make this delicious up front and an ageworthy beauty.

GRENACHE & GSM BLENDS

While most people associate this grape with Southern France, Grenache first started its life as Garnacha in Spain. This juicy red grape has thinner skins which give it bright red, plummy flavors. It typically shows toasted herb flavors too, like sage, lavender, and thyme.

ZINFANDEL + PRIMITIVO

In recent history, Zinfandel was California's “mystery grape” because its origins were unknown, but it has recently been confirmed that Italy's Primitivo and Crljenak Kaštelanski ("Tser-lane-ahk Kosh-tell-onski"), an ancient Croatian variety, are genetically identical to Zinfandel grapes.

PETITE SIRAH

Known as Durif in France, this unassuming little black grape is called petite for the small berries it produces. These tiny grapes result in a wine that is the opposite of petite. The high ratio of skins to grape juice result in a powerful black juice that produces a brazen monster of a wine!

MALBEC

Malbec and Argentina have become inseparable on many wine lists, but this grape variety’s origins lie in southwest France, where it is also known as Côt. It has become known for a more fruit-forward, juicy style that reflects the warmer climate of South America.

CARMÉNÈRE

When Chileans first planted Bordeaux varietals, not all were specifically identified. For years they struggled to ripen what they thought was Merlot, when, in fact, what they had were Carménère vines. It is still tricky to ripen, but the opulent leafy and bell pepper flavors found in this grape make for stellar blends and unique wines that showcase the grape on its own.

NEBBIOLO

While some winemakers like to talk about how difficult Pinot Noir is to grow, Nebbiolo is far more challenging. This is a very sensitive and temperamental varietal that doesn't like to be told what to do. The delicate, complex aromas of this grape from Italy will have you smelling a haunting bouquet of dried rose petals, leather, fall leaves, and red cherries.

SANGIOVESE

We can trace this grape back to the 16th century, but only in recent years has it come to the fame it has today. While Sangiovese is deeply rooted in tradition, it is not afraid to travel and thrives in both "Old World" and "New World" settings.

USA: Washington

The United States has been producing Sangiovese wines since the late 1800s when Italian immigrants brought the grape to Baja Mexico, California, and Washington. American Sangiovese delivers explosive flavors of black raspberries, floral herbs, sandalwood, and mocha, with brisk acidity and softer tannins that its Italian relatives.

SUPER TUSCANS

There are very traditional wines in the world that follow very specific rules, like Bordeaux and Châteauneuf-du-Pape. But sometimes producers don't want to follow the rules! They instead choose to blend non-traditional wines purely for the sake of making something unique and delicious. “Super Tuscans” are different from other Tuscan wines (like Chianti and Brunello), because they usually involve wine grapes that are not indigenous to Italy.

FRAPPATO +NERO D'AVOLA + NEGROAMARO + NERELLO MASCALESE

These southern Italian grapes are indigenous to Sicily and Puglia, and seldom venture into other regions. Frappato gives a light, fruity red wine. Delightful on its own, it is also blended with Syrah-like Nero d'Avola for Cerasuolo di Vittoria. Negroamaro hails from Puglia, and produces earthy, dark-fruited wines with moderate tannins. Nerello Mascalese is grown on Mt. Etna and is a bit like Nebbiolo with milder tannins.

BORDEAUX

A Bordeaux red usually combines two or more of the classic Bordeaux varieties: Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot, Carmenère and Malbec.

BORDEAUX : Right Bank

Right Bank Bordeaux is considered cool-climate, with Merlot being the dominant grape in the blend. In St. Emilion, Pomerol and the Fronsac areas you'll find a Merlot with more earth tones, tobacco, and forest floor in its aromas, in addition to black cherry, raspberry, and plum.

Whose wine? What wine? Where the hell did I dine!"

—Do You Feel Like I Do by Peter Frampton

Cult and Library Napa Cabernet from the Collection

The idea of Cult Cabernet didn't really emerge until the 90s, but there are several of these producers today. Power, finesse, grace, and intensity all come together to make a cult-status wine like these.

One of California's greatest Cabernets is not from the Napa Valley. Ridge Vineyards, in the Santa Cruz mountains south of San Francisco, has produced its single-vineyard Monte Bello Estate Cabernet Sauvignon since 1962. From 1969 through 2016, it was made by the same winemaker, Paul Draper. Organically farmed and aged in American oak, this wine is stellar year after year.

FORTIFIED & SWEET WINE

Sherry & Port

Stopping fermentation early by adding more alcohol is a classic method used in Port, Sherry, Madeira, and others. This makes for a very rich style of dessert wine that is powerful and intense.

3oz
Glass/Bottle

All fortified selections come in a 3oz pour.

9620	Quinta de la Rosa 20 Year Tawny Port 500ml	18/120

Late Harvest

Leaving grapes on the vine longer raises the sugar content. Yeast can only convert so much of this to alcohol, so these are lovely, lusciously sweet wines without the concentration and intensity of the desiccated styles.

Desiccated

Reducing water content in the grapes is a way to boost the sugar content. This can be done by drying the grapes, picking them while they are frozen, or letting them become affected by Noble Rot. The result is a much richer, succulent style of sweet wine.

GO BIG OR GO HOME

Wines age more slowly in larger bottles and the reduced contact to air via the cork diminishes as you go larger. We offer special service for our largest bottles with our V-Canter. Please inquire.

"You poured yourself a mega pint of red wine, correct?"
"I poured myself a large glass of wine. I thought it necessary."
