Hand vs Kiderino.

I open to $20 Hj Kd 3d , him to $60 and I call.

FLOP: 5d 4d 2s check he bets $65 me to $170 him all in he has A3o A3 is 55/45 favorite

- What do we learn here? Hands that are open ended flush draws have massive equity even vs the very best of range. At worst 60/40 vs a set.
- Take a suited ace with the backdoor and check raise it like having A7dd on 9c 8c 6d turns. Take an the stiff flush draw variety of an off suit ace you have defended with in the BB and attack the right boards especially vs tight EP openers. Ex 7s 6s 4h w As 5x. 8h 7s 6s
