DROP IT LIKE IT'S HOT

It's not hard to spot the Bauhaus influences in the Onos adjustable pendant from Hector Finch, a gorgeous and functional piece designed with the kitchen in mind. Don't let that limit you, though; the rise-and-fall pendant is suited to all manner of spaces. Install a pair at your bedside or one above the dining table for adjustable ambience.

SITTING PRETTY

EVERGREEN DESIGN

This brand new wallpaper from Sandberg is a modern expression of a bamboo grove. It combines lots of elements of 19th-century chinoiserie and features delicate leaves and blooms on a beige background. It would make a fitting addition to a peaceful bedroom, or even to line the walls of a sunroom.

As armchairs go, this one is verging on the spectacular. The frame is hand-forged steel and highly decorative, but the seat doesn't skimp on comfort. A plush shearling cocoon sits atop the botanical metal, ensuring this piece is both good-looking and practical – an armchair should encourage lounging, after all. Look to creator Bryan O'Sullivan for more understated elegance, and a brilliant blend of timeless silhouettes and contemporary tastes. The Spring Chair, £21,600. bryanosullivan.com
