TREAT YOURSELF bright lights, big city

It's not all power suits, panel talks and hard-nosed networking at the new Mayfair outpost of female-first members' club AllBright. Head upstairs to find a second floor dedicated to wellness, boasting a fitness studio, salon and treatment rooms offering express blow-drys, acupuncture and facials. Climb the ladder further to a blue leather-clad brasserie, loft-style event space and courtyard overlooking W1's rooftops, all stamped with the Suzy Hoodless touch and pretty enough to distract even the hardest-working woman from her laptop screen. Fitness studio, treatment rooms and salon open to non-members. 24-26 Maddox St, W1S (allbrightcollective.com)

THE INDULGENCE on your marks

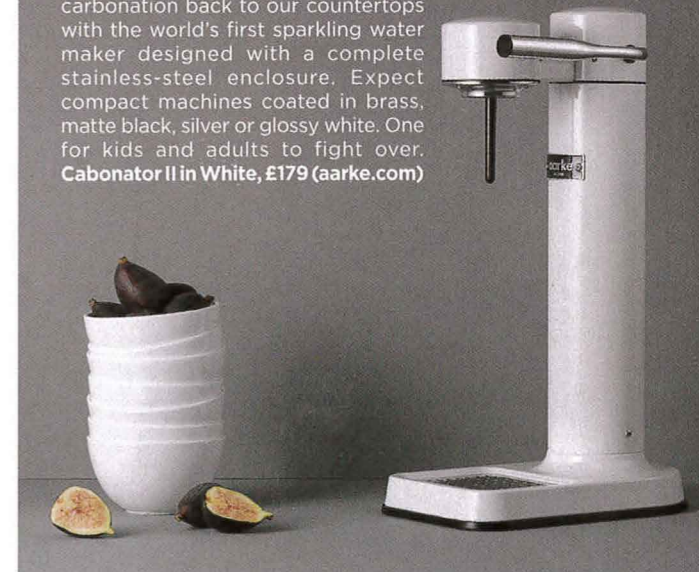

Only Linley could create a radio-slash-alarm clock worthy of heirloom status.

Teaming up with Ruark Audio, Linley's Tempo features the brand's exquisite trademark marquetry inlay on a sycamore design in a choice of four colourways (shown in Beret). Ruark Audio x Linley Tempo radio, £1,295 (davidlinley.com)

THE WEEKEND BUY carbon copy

Want to do your bit for the planet? Then get a load of this: an eco-friendly alternative to single-use plastic bottles. Swedish brand Aarke is bringing home-carbonation back to our countertops with the world's first sparkling water maker designed with a complete stainless-steel enclosure. Expect compact machines coated in brass, matte black, silver or glossy white. One for kids and adults to fight over. Cabonator II in White, £179 (aarke.com)
