

1. Original BTC Outdoor Lighting Finishes

British lighting manufacturer Original BTC has introduced new finishes for two outdoor designs. The Mast Light, a heritage piece originally used on sailing masts, is now offered in Verdigris, a green patina that lends texture and a sense of age to its crisp, nautical profile. Meanwhile, the Exterior Bracket Light is now available in a Weathered Bronze finish, bringing greater depth, warmth and architectural character to the well-glass design. Available with either a right-angle or canted arm, and with or without a cast reflector, it offers notable versatility. Made in England, both additions reflect a continued interest in patinated materials across hospitality and residential projects.

2. Hector Finch Box Wall Lantern

Soon to be featured in the Munder Skiles Courtyard Garden by Richard Miers Garden Design as part of WOW!house 2026, Hector Finch has unveiled Box Wall Lantern, a striking geometric luminaire that brings a contemporary edge to the traditional lantern format. Available in antique brass or bronze with options for ribbed or opal glass, its eye-catching silhouette is bold and offers a warm light to subtly illuminate a range of interior and exterior schemes including hallways, doorways and living spaces. The lantern joins an extensive collection of designs, each exemplifying Hector Finch's reach as a luxury brand that illuminates highly curated spaces across the globe.

3. Palecek Seville Tiered Chandelier

Designed to feel both fluid and deliberate, Palecek's Seville Tiered Chandelier strikes the balance between structure and softness. Suspended from an antique gold-finished chain with an adjustable length for customisable hanging heights, the chandelier unfolds in softly sculpted layers, each hand-wrapped in natural abaca rope. The warmth of its woven fibres brings an organic tactility, contrasting the strength of its powdercoated metal frame to create a presence that is at once grounded and elevated. The Seville Tiered Chandelier further showcases Palecek's passion for crafting timeless and sustainable furnishings using natural materials.

4. Elstead Lighting • Quintiesse Novatude

Through a partnership with Atlanta-based Currey & Company, Quintiesse presents Novatude, a new collection of chandeliers and floor lamps. Designed by Tom Caldwell to evoke a constellation of effervescent stars, the collection is entirely steel in its composition, from the body and clasps in an antique gold leaf finish, to the thin ribs that shade the bulbs in contemporary silver leaf. Novatude is one of almost 100 new lighting products by Currey & Company to have been specified for the 220-240V markets, and will feature at Clerkenwell Design Week 2026, located at stand L22 in the design festival's former-prison-turned-exhibition-space, House of Detention.
