A light touch

The latest lamps and accessories to brighten any room, selected by Amelia Thorpe

▲ Fine line

Crafted by hand in Original BTC's factory in Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire, the Shard chandelier 100, £1,750, is made from 42 fine bone-china tiles suspended on a laser-cut steel frame. 'The multi-faceted forms work to maximise the material's translucency, luminosity and versatility,' says director Charlie Bowles (020-7351 2130; www.originalbtc.com)

◀ Aged style

The Archaic Water Jar table lamp, £860, is hand-made with an antique finish to accentuate its rustic beauty, from Paolo Moschino (020-7730 8623; www.paolomoschino.com)

◀ New globe

Celebrating 25 years in business, lighting specialist Hector Finch has a range of new products, including the Hammered Glass Globe pendant light. Available with a signature monk's cap fitting in a choice of finishes and a ceiling rose to match, it costs from £654 for the small 22cm (8½in) diameter size (020-7731 8886; www.hectorfinch.com)

▶ Period piece

'Geometric in form, and clean, strong and substantive, the Randolph lantern reflects the Art Deco movement of the inter-war period,' says Will Fisher, founder of Jamb. It is cast in brass using the ancient lost-wax process, is shown here in Roman Bronze finish and costs £6,960 (020-7730 2122; www.jamb.co.uk)
