

THE WORLD OF INTERIORS

Finch's 'Zeppelin' sconce (£625), which can be installed upright or sideways, consists of a single piece of ribbed borosilicate glass that encases two IP44 LED strips and a metal box that protects the driver. Its 'Hector' glass globe (£1,176), meanwhile, uses the firm's IP44-rated 'Osh' lamp. Both are available in a raft of metal finishes, including brass (shown). 7 Has the time come to banish white baths, shower trays and washbasins? German manufacturer Bette's innumerable glazed titanium-steel standard models, as well as custom-made designs, are available in more than 400 colours. And for those with Liberace-style leanings, there are even glitter options; prices start from £553 for a 'Bette Form' fitted bath. Ring 0844 800 0547, or visit my-bette.com.

8 'Dwiss' is it! A recycling bin that is itself environmentally friendly. Jon Walker and Paul Timmer's 65cm-high design (£399) is built to last in Amsterdam from Forest Stewardship Council-certified wood coated in water-based lacquer. But when it's time is eventually up it can be disassembled and recycled. Visit yourdwiss.com.

9 If Cuisinart has its way, you will be cooking up a storm with its 'easy to store and quick to charge' compact 'Cordless' collection. And, apparently, it can also help alleviate your labours with a glass of something nice: one of the five component items – and the cheapest at £80 – is a four-in-one wine opener. Ring 0370 240 6902, or visit cuisinart.co.uk.

10 Just as seeing a rainbow lifts the spirits, so Matouk's spectrum of 23 cotton 'Milagro' bath towels (76 x 152cm; $49 each), including the new ones shown, will perk up any bathroom. Ring 001 855 795 7600, or visit matouk.com.
