A Cool Caribbean Sojourn

Reprieves from blindingly sunny days are paved in crushed shells and mottled limestone. Tucked beneath sky-high palms, furniture appears painted by the sea—or Oliver Messel himself, one might overhear at cocktail hour. Verbena wraps dendragris lanterns and giltwood antiques, like treasures from a faraway grotto.

A New Era for Earth Tones

Designer Rajni Alex took a grounded approach to kitchen glamour with deep, full-bodied reds accented with plenty of “jewels.” A Calacatta Viola marble backsplash with oxblood veining inspired the sultry color scheme, with rich burgundy cabinetry striking a sophisticated balance between ebony stone countertops and creamy, textural walls. Brass accessories like diamond-banded hardware and a hand-painted metallic plaster vent hood put a captivating shine on the unexpected reds. And with hand-blown glass pendants dangling like gems from a swaggered chain, this kitchen offers Palm Beach glitterati an enticing invitation to stay in. ♦
