Akademirommet is located in the back of Kunstneres Hus and is run by students from the Art Academy of Fine Art in Oslo, since late 2014. As a space with many doors, Akademirommet invites students to contribute to a future dialogue on exhibiting and to continuously explore methodologies and boundaries. The program encompasses all forms of public presentations, ranging from a constellation of works to performances, interventions, publications, panel discussions, screenings or workshops. By circumventing common reservations about student galleries, it operates as a link between generations, temporalities and localities, between local and international communities.
