Destination Discovery Art RFP 2024

BACKGROUND

The Saint Louis Zoo has been a treasured zoological institution for over 100 years, educating guests of all ages while serving as a global leader in the conservation of animals and their habitats. Within the Zoo was a very special area for its youngest visitors and their families at our beloved Children’s Zoo. The new vision of this 2.8-acre site, called the Henry A. Jubel Foundation Destination Discovery, is to provide close positive encounters with animals and their caretakers creating empathy for animals and nature which can help lead to conservation action.” Through play and fun experiences, we want our guest to know that by caring for animals, our shared world becomes a healthier place for all living things.

This dynamic exhibit is designed with the youngest guest in mind, emphasizing close-up encounters with animals in an immersive and hands-on learning environment for guest of all abilities. Guests young and young at heart, will have the opportunity to explore underground tunnels and dig by prairie dogs, splash alongside flamingos and climb high near the coati. Not only will there be seasonal changes but there will be spontaneous animal encounters and surprise animal experiences, like macaws flying overhead. There will be hours of activities and fun for the entire family.

Construction will start in 2024 with plans to open to the public as early as April, 2026.

SCOPE OF WORK

The Saint Louis Zoo (“Zoo”) is seeking to commission six different art packages for the new Destination Discovery exhibit intended to open in spring of 2026. Each package is unique and will have its own scope of work. Artists may bid on one or multiple packages, i.e. one package or all six packages. The Zoo reserves the right to award to one or multiple bidders. Bidders should read the entire Request for Proposal (RFP) and attachments to get a feeling for the site and the Zoo’s vision, even if the artist is only bidding on one package.

The style of the site will be whimsical/natural as explained in the Package 1 scope document

(Attachment 1). The intended audience will be children 2 to 10 years old and their families. Safety is a priority so no trip hazards, sharp edges or points on the finished art. Some of the art will be touchable and or climbable by the Zoo's guests, some will not be depending upon the individual package scope. The "Big Idea" for the project is, "By caring for animals, our shared world becomes a healthier place for all living things." The artist will be responsible for the design, fabrication, engineering as required in the package, packing, shipping and installation of the art.

The awarded artist will be encouraged to be innovative, fun, and imaginative. The Zoo will work within those dynamics to meet the Zoo's educational objectives and to assure our vision of guest empathy and engagement.

The awarded artist will be working with the Zoo, the architectural firm, and the site construction management team. Once the artists are selected, all communications will go through the Art Project Manager from the Zoo, for simplicity.

Scope of work includes:

- Design
- Sketches and a scale model (moquette) to communicate intent if the package calls for it
- Coordination meetings with the Zoo, the architectural firm, and the construction management team
- Fabrication
- Engineering, if the package calls for it
- Packing/shipping/delivery
- Installation of the art in conjunction with the onsite construction management team
