The Future of Nuclear Energy in the Middle East and North Africa

26th January 2012

On Thursday 26th January, the Middle East Association will be holding an Evening Briefing on 'The Future of Nuclear Energy in the Middle East and North Africa', the fourth event of our energy series.

In recent years the Middle East has developed an interest in the expansion of nuclear energy. Technology and trade have put the Middle East at the forefront of economic growth as well as a centre for several innovative means of export and business. Coming at an opportune time, this growing significance of nuclear energy has put many issues that come along with this extension into question. This business briefing will examine the opportunities and challenges related to the development of nuclear energy in the region.

This event will showcase a diverse range of speakers from different business sectors of nuclear energy, covering crucial issues such as: construction, business opportunities, government support, safety and security, international regulation and cooperation, and the economics of nuclear expansion.

Our schedule is as follows:

1700: Registration

1730: Presentations, followed by Q&A

Moderator: Charles Hollis, Director General, MEA

Presenters:

Bob Bish, UKTI Energy

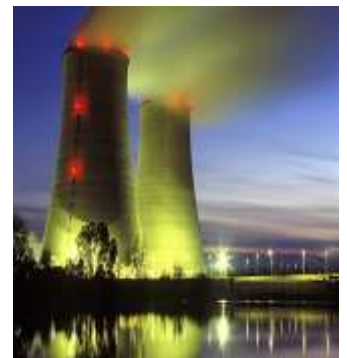

Mike Waite, Westinghouse Electric

Claire Harvey, Prospect Law
