

FOR THAYER

“We don’t do this alone.
Your gifts fuel the remarkable learning and discovery that happens here at Thayer.”

■ In yet another record-breaking year, Thayer School of Engineering awarded a record 351 engineering degrees to this year’s graduates—which included a majority female Bachelor of Engineering (BE) and Master of Engineering Management (MEM) class. Women have consistently comprised half of our engineering student population in the undergraduate and master’s degree programs, especially notable when compared to 20 to 30 percent of women who earn engineering degrees nationally.

A RECORD

351 engineering
degrees

with a majority female BE and MEM class

We launched Dartmouth’s first fully online master of engineering degree program in computer engineering to help expand global access to critical skills essential for keeping pace with artificial intelligence (AI) technologies embedded in intelligent systems. This was not only a first for Dartmouth, but for the Ivy League in this area.

Our faculty and their research teams discovered new materials for solar cells, partnered with the United Nations to help decarbonize peacekeeping missions, traveled to the Arctic and Antarctic poles to study the impact of ice sheet changes on sea-level rise, helped improve and safeguard artificial intelligence models, and more.

And this summer, our community cheered on two of our own at the 2024 Summer Olympics—engineering sciences major and heavyweight rower Billy Bender ’24 and engineering alum Isalys Quiñones ’19 TH’20, the starting center for the Puerto Rican women’s basketball team.

All of this is a testament to our interdisciplinary, integrated human-centered approach to engineering education and research that not only sets us apart, but lifts barriers and increases opportunity for talented engineering students and faculty. I am proud that we continue to attract talented, innovative, and curious students with unique perspectives and creative outside-the-box thinking.

We don’t do this alone. Your gifts fuel the remarkable learning and discovery that happens here at Thayer. Your support helps us expand hands-on, project-based opportunities for more students and provide critical resources for faculty engaged in research that improve our health, mitigate climate change, and better our world.

More than 900 of you—including 700 alumni—gave to the Thayer Annual Fund. You attended numerous Thayer events, returned to campus for reunion, and generously volunteered your time on our boards, councils, and on committees. With each gift, you brought us closer to achieving our shared vision of a better, more sustainable world.

On behalf of the entire Thayer community, I extend my heartfelt gratitude for your steadfast support.

Alexis R. Abramson ’93a, Dean

Kirsten Doogue TH'99,'00 & Mike Doogue TH'98 Give Back to Thayer

Kirsten and Mike Doogue began their careers together at Allegro MicroSystems where Mike is currently senior vice president and chief technology officer. Kirsten went on to become an established embroidery artist who specializes in hand embroidery techniques. Today, they live in Bedford, NH, with their three children.

Kirsten and Mike Doogue met as engineering students in Thayer's Partner School Dual-Degree Program, Kirsten attended Wellesley and Thayer, majoring in chemistry, computer science, and electrical engineering before also earning her master's from Thayer, while Mike went to Colby and Thayer, earning degrees in physics and electrical engineering.

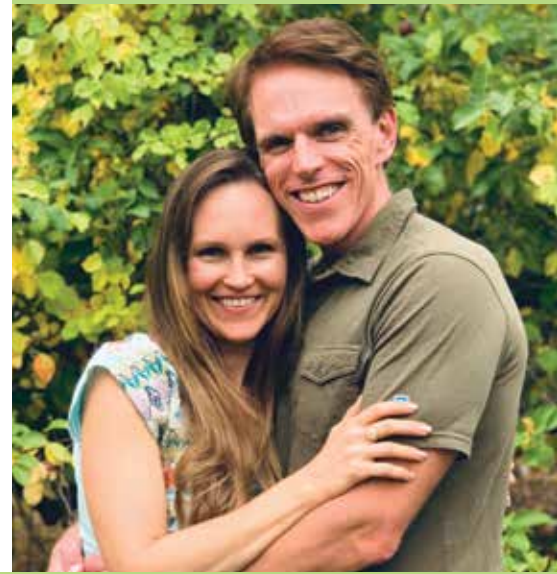

"It changed my life to have that opportunity," Kirsten said. "Engineering sets you up to do a lot of different things. It teaches you how to look at the world and deconstruct what you see so that you can discover what you want to improve. Then you can drive improvements, in a different, creative way."

Since Mike has been at Allegro, the company has hired more than 10 Thayer graduates. "Thayer cultivates independent-thinking, project-based engineers who are able to go out and make a splash in the world, and I love that," he said.

The Doogues support Thayer Annual Fund because they know the Thayer experience prepares graduates to solve meaningful, impactful problems using unique, innovative and action-oriented skill sets forged both in the classroom and the lab.

Thayer cultivates independent-thinking, project-based engineers who are able to...make a splash in the world.”

Opportunities to harness marine energy are plentiful and invaluable in supporting the renewable energy transition.”

Emily Barosin '25 Awarded 2024-25 Mazilu Engineering Research Fellowship

The award will support Barosin's work with Dartmouth Engineering professor Benoit Cushman-Roisin on a monitoring system for underwater turbines.

"Opportunities to harness marine energy are plentiful and invaluable in supporting the renewable energy transition," says Barosin. "I'm excited to help technology developers by creating a device that allows them to monitor the health and performance of underwater turbines as they're tested and deployed. And I'm grateful to the Mazilu family for their support of Thayer and in making this research possible."

The project, entitled, "A structural health monitoring system for underwater turbines using passive acoustic monitoring techniques," aims to utilize both passive acoustic monitoring and computational models for reliable detection of a turbine's structural faults and the acoustic signature of these faults.

"Following an initial study on the bioacoustics of seagrass, Emily has turned her attention to the acoustics of underwater turbine blades," says Professor Cushman-Roisin. "The intriguing and clever aspect of this research is not so much the noise made by these blades as the ability to detect in the acoustic signal when a blade goes bad and is in need of repair. This would save on costly underwater inspections and repairs."

Thayer Annual Fund

To every volunteer and donor, thank you for your investment in Thayer and our students. The 2024 Annual Report of Gifts recognizes gifts to the Thayer Annual Fund made between July 1, 2023 and June 30, 2024.

The Sylvanus Thayer Society for Leadership Giving honors all members of the Thayer community, including alumni, friends, students, faculty, staff and parents who make Thayer a priority in their annual philanthropy with a total annual gift of $1,000 or more to the Thayer Annual Fund.

Albert W. Doolittle Jr. '36 TH'37 never missed a gift to the Thayer Annual Fund since its establishment in 1976. In his honor, donors who give at least five consecutive years, or every year since their Thayer graduation, are recognized with membership in the Albert W. Doolittle Society.
