Thackray Williams: Don't just take our word for it

Lee- Ann Diaz

I joined the firm just before the pandemic and even in the midst of uncertain times felt welcomed by my team and the wider firm. I then wanted to gain some city experience and take on a more broader role within the Private Client sphere and moved to a Top Tier 1 firm in London. 'Not all that glitters is gold' was true of my experience there and I realised there was such great value in working with genuinely nice people and having supervisors and team members that were your biggest champions. I returned to Thackray Williams in October 2023 and there is not a day that I have regretted my decision. I must further add that I still have so many opportunities to work on complex and HNW matters so for me there has been no compromise.

Marcus Beavis

In 2010, I had the opportunity to complete some work experience in the family department, which led to being offered a legal assistant position in 2012 in the New build team. From the minute I joined the firm, I always felt supported and respected whilst being given the opportunity to grow. My dream was to become a qualified solicitor and one day become a partner within a successful law firm. At TW this dream has become a reality and through my hard work and with the support of the firm, I was promoted to Partner in April 2022. I have always felt that I am able to be myself at all times and that the firm provide a diverse working environment. It is evident that if you work hard and aspire to achieve great things, this can happen at Thackray Williams.

Nick Gabay

I was with my previous law firm for over 20 years. I was happy there and thought I would spend my whole career with the same firm. But then, I got a call about an opportunity at Thackray Williams. I was impressed by the management team and their ambitious expansion plans. It felt like they were on a really exciting upward trajectory; it was an amazing opportunity to join that journey and drive growth in the Corporate and Commercial sector. We are committed to improving everything about what we do; the well-being of our staff, the service to clients, the tools we need to provide that service and the general culture of being a fun place to work.

At TW, the grass is so much greener.
