Great Directors: Robert Altman

April 24 - June 8

Generously supported by Sam Walker

When a new kind of brash, honest, and gritty cinema arrived on the American scene in the 1970s, there was one voice that was brasher, more honest, and grittier than most. Robert Altman was among the group of New Hollywood directors that brought a European arthouse sensibility to the American mainstream. His 40-year film career produced such classics as *M*A*S*H*, McCabe and Mrs. Miller, Nashville, The Long Goodbye, Short Cuts, and Gosford Park. Altman was not afraid to reinvent the wheel, changing the way filmmakers thought about sound and modernizing staid genres like the western, film noir, and the psychological thriller. A fearless storyteller and a fan of ensemble casts, he was able to imbue his films with a dense mixture of hilarity, tragedy, violence, and eroticism—in short, an approximation of the big, messy life he loved. For this retrospective, Film Streams will screen 14 of this important filmmaker's feature films—testaments to one of the towering figures of a crucial era in cinema. We're thrilled to include visits from local filmmaker Dana Altman, one of Robert's grandsons.

Forever Young

Family & Children's Series Spring 2015

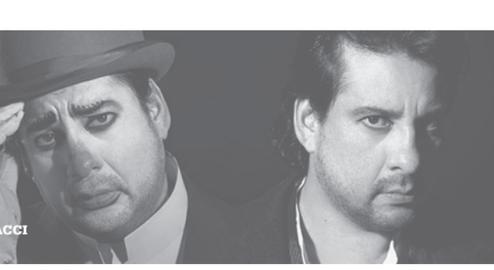

Series made possible with support from

An eclectic program for our Spring Forever Young Family & Children's Series is sure to delight film lovers of all ages. The series opens with two beloved animated features, the outrageous Who Framed Roger Rabbit and the stop-motion favorite Chicken Run. Next, two family-friendly classics from the silent era, Chang: A Drama of the Wilderness and Charlie Chaplin's The Gold Rush, will prove why this art form is still wowing audiences. And, a cross-over with Great Directors: Robert Altman, Popeye, will round things out.

Made possible with the support of the Lincoln Financial Foundation, films in this series have matinee screenings on Saturdays, Sundays, and Thursdays, and kids 12 and under always get in for just $2.50.

See reverse side for more information and dates.
